

LANCASHIRE - Blackpool

Long a favourite of Lancastrians, Blackpool also attracts folk from all over the UK and even further afield. Its land-mark tower, built in 1894, is an icon of the British seaside resort. And what about that promenade?

The Golden Mile has every sort of attraction you could think of. There's the world famous Pleasure Beach with breakneck futuristic and traditional rides. The trams are here too. The nearly former fishing port of Fleetwood still hold one of Lancashire's fish market on 3 or 4 days a week. Don't forget the green pleasant countryside which stretches away to Yorkshire and Cumbria.
