GILSLAND SPA HOTEL ★★★★★

From Gilsland Spa, we'll explore the fabulous region of Cumbria. The hotel itself is just on the edge of Northumbria, near the tiny village of Gilsland. The place is steeped in history, Roman and more recent. It's actually on the course of Hadrian's Wall. Indeed, locals say there's more than one stone from the Wall in many of the buildings! Evidence of the Wall is everywhere. There are scenic walks all around Gilsland. For example, visitors can enjoy the magnificent Irthing Gorge, which marks the boundary between Cumbria and Northumbria. The Popping Stone, where Sir Walter Scott popped the question, is also in the gorge. Further afield are the historic towns of Hexham and Carlisle.

The Gilsland Spa hotel sits about 1/2 a mile from the village and some 700ft above sea level, commanding spectacular views over the Cumbrian countryside. Set in 140 acres of park and woodland, the hotel provides plenty of opportunities for leisurely strolls and more demanding scenic walks. It offers spacious en suite rooms with modern facilities, a bar, lounge and excellent dining facilities. It is renowned for its entertainment programme. We think you'll really enjoy the place.
