

ST AGNES

St Agnes is a picturesque and hilly village on the spectacularly beautiful Atlantic coast of Cornwall. Steeped in mining and maritime history, the village now contents itself with providing a warm welcome for tourists, many of whom return year after year. They clearly feel, as we do, that it's a great base.

The area around St Agnes is equally beautiful. Much of the coast is breathtaking, with spectacular cliffs, secluded natural harbours and magnificent golden beaches. Legends abound, the history is fascinating and the sights something everyone should see at least once.

THE ROSEMUNDY HOUSE HOTEL ★★ ★

This attractive, cosy and family-run hotel has a fascinating history of its own. Rooms vary in size, but all are comfortably furnished and have all the facilities you would expect. Indeed, this hotel is a particular favourite of our drivers, at least one of whom rates the scrambled eggs for breakfast here the best he has ever tasted! The hotel stands in its own secluded and sheltered grounds, with a heated outdoor pool and even a grass amphitheatre remaining from an earlier existence.

No lift but many ground floor rooms. No rooms more than one set of stairs away.
