

BLAIRGOWRIE

Follow the River Tay's tributary, the River Etricht, and you will find Blairgowrie and its sister community, Rattray, nestling below the Sidlaw Hills. That's just what the salmon do, by the way, and they are no doubt grateful for the salmon ladder which they encounter here. Be that as it may, the fishing is generally considered outstanding. Walk along the river, enjoying the fabulous scenery and pause to visit the old corn mill, now a visitor centre, antiques warehouse, gallery and bistro.

As you explore this picturesque country town, you might like to visit the genealogy centre if there are any ancestors you'd like to trace. Whatever you do there, you'll love this gateway to the Glens
