CRICKET ST. THOMAS ★★★★★

A splendid 18th century Grade II house designed by the great Sir John Sloane, this is one of the most seductive manor houses in the country. Doubtless this helps explain why "To the Manor Born" was filmed here. The setting's equally splendid: the scenic and tranquil Somerset countryside, magnificent views of which can be seen from the house, unfolds before your eyes. In the grounds there's a wildlife park which is home to some rare species. Hotel guests can enjoy the wildlife park at reduced rates.

Set beside a beautiful shingle beach with great views, overlooking Langstone Harbour, Sinah Warren is only 25 minutes from Chichester, on the Portsmouth side of Hayling Island.

Sinah Warren is a tranquil paradise of pines and flowers, sea-birds and butterflies. You're as likely to spot a Red Admiral from your sun-lounger as a salty sea dog out in the bay. And we chose our location with the utmost care, ensuring you can enjoy the finest possible views of stunning Langstone harbour and every opportunity to relax and take in the sweet, intoxicating sea air.

LITTLECOTE HOUSE ★★★★★

Here in 1535 Henry VIII wooed Jane Seymour, the lovers' tryst recalled in the Great Hall by a fine decorative Cupid's head. Yet this is just part of a rich narrative that spans the centuries. From the lovingly preserved Roman mosaic to the Dutch parlour, Littlecote is a warren of antiquity. At Littlecote, history is ever-present. The hotel has hosted Tudor monarchs, Civil War captains and Regency nobles, not to mention the occasional friendly ghost.
